Vote in County Is Heavy

Rain and Muddy Roads Keeping Some Voters Home Over the State

Sedalia and Pettis county voters began swarming into the election polls shortly before noon today, and party leaders declare today's voting may be as heavy, or heavier, than the presidential election two years ago. It was believed by some, a good many farmers, who reside on muddy roads, may not have an opportunity to vote today, for rather than battle muddy roads would stay at home.

Voting began at 6 o'clock and was heavy for the first two hours of the day, then slackened up through the mid-morning and was considered very light. However, at the noon hour the automobiles being used by both Democratic and Republican parties began bringing in the voters, and this continued until mid-afternoon.

A heavy vote is expected to reach the polls after the Missouri Pacific shops and shoe factories close this evening.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 5.—(P)—Heavy voting was reported today at home town, and in the two metropolitan centers where both parties looked for the decision in an election billed as a test of President Truman's home state prestige.

Rain and muddy roads appeared to be keeping many voters away from the polls in southwestern Missouri, a Republican stronghold, Rep. Marion T. Bennett (R) of Springfield, seeking reelection in the sixth congressional district, said he feared several thousand farmer Republicans would not vote.

Elsewhere the weather was good and the voters turned out early, with both Kansas City and St. Louis balloting exceeding reelection forecasts.

Kansas City, home of Republican senatorial nominee James P. Kem, reported 55,000 had voted by noon, indicating a possible total there of 125,000, far ahead of the 85,000 votes cast in 1942, the last off-year election.

Heavy Vote in St. Louis
St. Louis, which played a decisive role in the 1944 presidential election, also registered a heavy vote with nearly 80,000 estimated votes cast by noon.

Presidential prestige was a major issue in the campaign to elect a United States senator for the seat once occupied by Mr. Truman and 13 representatives.

Kansas City, scene of several hot local contests, reported an exceptionally heavy turnout of early morning voters. In the first four hours after the polls opened there, 36,500 of 182,000 qualified voters had cast their ballots. The sky was overcast but nothing worse than an occasional shower was indicated.

In St. Louis the first four hours drew an estimated 50,000 citizens to the polls, approximately 13 per cent of the total registration. The total was regarded as heavy for an off-year election and led to prediction that a pre-election forecast of a 225,000 total vote might be exceeded.

Weather Varies
Weather conditions varied. Cold rain was falling at Carthage, where an extremely light vote was reported. Only five per cent of the eligible voters there had cast their ballots in the first four hours.

At nearby Joplin the rain apparently did not deter the voting. The early vote was termed brisk.

Clear cool weather produced a fairly heavy early vote at Cape Girardeau. At the state capital precinct workers reported a vote three times the size of the primary balloting. The weather at Jefferson City was cool with the sky hazy.

Springfield reported a moderately heavy vote under cloudy skies. At Moberly, where fine autumn weather prevailed, the balloting also was moderate.

In Clayton, St. Louis county, the vote was heavy with one precinct reporting 96 votes in the first four hours, nearly ten times the number during the same period in the primary election.

The state's first citizen voted early.

National Guard to Use Ft. Leonard Wood

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—(P)—Missouri has been authorized to use Ft. Leonard Wood to train the 34th division and other National Guard units, the war department said today.

The authority includes use of warehouses and facilities for the maintenance and repair of vehicle and other equipment. The post remains under regular army control and will be in "inactive status" pending determination of the army's postwar requirements.

On Their Way to Cast Ballots

The Democrat-Capital staff photographer snapped the above picture early this morning as several voters were on their way into the house at 1911 East Ninth street, which is the voting place for the third precinct in the third ward.

President and Daughter Cast Votes Early

Then Boarded Special Train For Washington

By Ernest B. Vaccaro

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., Nov. 5.—(P)—President Truman cast his own vote early today in the nation-wide congressional election which will shape the future course of his administration.

The chief executive and his daughter, Margaret, who voted for the first time in the Democratic primary last August, turned in their ballots nearly an hour after Mrs. Truman. She walked over to the seventh precinct of Blue Township with her sister-in-law and neighbor, Mrs. Frank Wallace, to cast ballot No. 31.

The president and Margaret arrived at the Memorial building, three blocks from their home at 219 Delaware street at 9:05 a. m. (CST).

The nation's first family left shortly afterwards for the Independence railroad station to board their special train for Washington leaving at 9:30 a. m. (CST).

The president received his ballot from Mrs. Jesse Flowers, Republican judge, after being checked off the voting list by Mrs. James Miller, Democratic checker.

Greeted Other Officials
The president then greeted the other precinct officials, Mrs. Murrell Miller, Democratic judge; Mrs. Dan Riske, Republican clerk; Mrs. A. J. Blatt, Democratic clerk; Roy Pryor, Republican judge and his own brother-in-law, George Wallace, Democratic judge.

Like Mrs. Truman, the president voted the straight Democratic ticket which included Senator Briggs (D-Mo.), his own successor in the senate, seeking reelection, and Representative Jasper Bell, fourth district congressman.

The president has remained determined on the sidelines during the campaign and he retired to his Missouri home last night without even issuing a statement. There have been no official explanations of Mr. Truman's course of silence.

His absence from a Democratic rally here Friday night was attributed by Mayor Robert T. Sermon of Independence to a desire to "uphold the dignity of his high office."

Stolen Car Found Wrecked

The 1938 Zephyr sedan of C. E. Van Horn, 232 South Grand avenue, stolen sometime after 9:30 o'clock Monday night, was found about 2:30 o'clock this morning on Highway 50 about four miles west of California, Mo. The automobile had been wrecked.

The car was reported stolen about 8 o'clock this morning and the Highway Patrol notified the police about 8:45 o'clock of its recovery.

No information was obtained as to whether the car driver was injured or arrested.

Boy Scout Facts to be Told

In the past few days letters have been received by Boy Scouts of America Scouters, Parents of Scouts and former Scouters, from the headquarters of the Lake of the Ozark Council, Boy Scouts of America at Jefferson City. This letter was in reference to the lifting of the Sedalia charter at the time it expires the latter part of this year and also the Community Chest Fund.

Cline Cain, first vice-president of the Lake of the Ozarks Council made the following statement Monday night upon his return from Jefferson City where with Harry Lambirth they attended a meeting of the Council.

"This letter has just come to my attention and I was among the last to receive it in Sedalia. As vice-president, I ordinarily receive copies of meetings of the

J. O. DeHaven, 1120 West Henry, who suffered a stroke ten days ago and Claude M. Cluxton, 403 East Sixth street, admitted for medical treatment.

F. Hanigan Addresses Optimist Club

Speaks on Santa Fe Application to Enter St. Louis

The Optimist club met at noon today at the Bothwell hotel with Dr. Ben Klein, president, presiding.

The Rev. Herman Janssen was presented to the club as a new member.

Carl Goist, a guest at the meeting, was introduced by Harry Trotman.

Frank Hanigan, guest speaker, was introduced by Harry Lambirth. Mr. Hanigan spoke in place of Charles R. Kilbury, who was unable to be at the meeting. His talk was on the petition of the Santa Fe Railroad to go into St. Louis.

Mr. Hanigan stated that should the Santa Fe go into St. Louis the effect would be greatly felt in Sedalia. The value of the Missouri Pacific to Sedalia is measured by its frequent and dependable transportation service and the number of persons employed, the speaker said.

The entrance of the Santa Fe into St. Louis will not in any way improve the service at Sedalia as it will not in any way serve that point, the speaker said.

Could Cut Number of Employees

An appreciable decrease in the volume of traffic now being interchanged between the Santa Fe and Missouri Pacific at any of the thirty-six interchange points in the states named above will reduce the amount of train service on the Missouri Pacific railroad will be reflected in the number of employees at Sedalia, as it is obvious that the same number of employees will not be required to operate or maintain a reduced train service, he said.

The average number of employees per month at Sedalia in 1940 was 956. Mr. Hanigan said, while in 1946 it was 1430, an increase of 34 percent. The number of train service employees on the Eastern division is not included in the above totals for the reason that the fluctuation of business offered for movement varies.

A reduction in the volume of traffic for movement between Kansas City and St. Louis by the Missouri Pacific railroad to the 1940 level will obviously reduce the number of the train service employees, and should the Santa Fe Railroad be permitted to serve the St. Louis gateway a further reduction of Missouri Pacific employees is inevitable, the speaker said.

Harry Lambirth made a short talk on "The Future of Boy Scouting in Sedalia."

Boy Scout Facts to be Told

Council and as yet have not received such, other than the letter which was mailed out as to what action took place at a meeting October 25.

"I consider it untimely in its being sent out at this time and unfair to the Scout Leaders of Sedalia. In my own opinion the presentation in the letter was very one-sided as there are many circumstances and many events leading up to the local District Officers taking the action they did."

"Both Community Chest and District Officers of Boy Scouts here in Sedalia, should have an opportunity to present the case before any judgment is rendered."

"In my own mind the Sedalia District Officers had many just reasons to do what they did and the public in general will agree with them when all the facts are brought to light, which will be done."

Lt. Gen. Clay Serves Notice On Germans

Accused Them of 'Whitewashing' Nazis in U.S. Zone

By Donald Doane

STUTTGART, Germany, Nov. 5.—(P)—Lt. Gen. Lucius D. Clay accused the Germans today of "whitewashing" Nazis and served notice that unless they showed quick improvement the military government would take back the job of denazification in the American zone.

The deputy U. S. military governor delivered his warning to officials of the provisional German government at a monthly meeting of the Laenderrat, composed of the minister presidents of all three American zone states. They listened in glum silence.

Clay conferred with the German leaders briefly after his speech and then reported to a press conference.

"The minister presidents accepted my criticisms in good faith and promised to exert their best efforts to better results."

Asked what excuses the presidents gave for failure of the denazification courts set up by the Germans last spring, Clay said they blamed "largely mechanical difficulties."

The deputy military governor of the American occupation zone announced an immediate order that no German who had been removed from office by the military government might be returned to office without military government approval, even though tried and cleared of Nazism by German denazification courts.

It was the sharpest criticism yet made of the provisional German government by military government officials, who last spring turned over to the Germans the responsibility of clearing their own ranks of Nazism in the American zone.

German officials from the three states in the American zone listened in glum silence to the sharp reproof.

"I shall watch your work during the next 60 days with special attention in the hope that there will become evident the will to do this denazification job which is not evident today," Clay said.

Clay told the Germans that their failure in denazification was imperiling their hope of future self-government. The military government cannot in good conscience restore self-government to German people who have demonstrated their unwillingness to denazify themselves," he said.

Talk on Signs Of the Times

A large crowd was present at the revival meeting at the First Baptist church Monday night and the people attending are enjoying the music being led by Mrs. Cecil Hanslee and the special numbers being rendered by her and other members of the choir. Tonight is All Church night, which means that all members of the church are asked to be present and invite guests to be with them.

Dr. Moncrief spoke Monday night on the subject, "The Signs of the Times and Clouds in the Sky."

He said Jesus denounced the spiritual ignorance of His day because the religious rulers could prophesy the weather, but they could not discern the signs of the times and the meaning of events. "We are guilty of the same stupidity," the pastor said. "We are good at forecasting football games, stock market fluctuations and town affairs, but we are poor at understanding the forces of history that are shaping the destiny of our nation and the world in our times."

Undergoes Operation
Mrs. Frank B. Riley, 1316 West Fourth street, underwent an operation at St. Joseph's hospital, Booneville, Monday morning. She stood the operation nicely, but is still seriously ill.

Snow Storm Moving Into New Mexico

Eight Deaths in Colorado Attributed To the Storm

DENVER, Nov. 5.—(P)—A warm, bright sun cut into the drifts of a three-day blizzard throughout eastern Colorado today as the state struggled to return to normal life and movement.

From freezing temperatures which dipped to six degrees in mountainous Leadville and 19 in Denver last night, the thermometer began climbing to expected highs of 35 degrees in the mountains and 45 to 55 on the plains.

The weather bureau said the storm, which left eight dead, was wearing itself out in northern New Mexico. Fair weather was predicted for tomorrow.

Crews worked to clear runways at snowbound Stapleton airport in Denver. All buses were running over the snowy highway but making little effort to maintain schedules. Most train movement was back to normal.

Some Schools Closed
Some Denver businesses remained closed today; others opened late. Denver public schools will reopen tomorrow after being closed two days.

The state highway patrol reported all main roads open except Raton Pass into New Mexico and U. S. 24 east and west from Colorado Springs. Road gangs worked to clear blocked rural roads.

Politicians Watching
Politicians watched the movement of the storm with interest, since many rural precincts may have an extremely light vote because of inability to get to the general election polls today.

Election clerks, whose precincts lay in remote areas, were counseled to devise "wrapping paper" ballots when regular ballots could not be delivered.

Of the eight deaths recorded, four occurred in Denver when persons attempted to start cars stalled in deep drifts.

In the midst of the storm, twin boys were born to a Denver woman whose physician could not arrive because of the weather. Her husband assisted at the birth. There were bright spots in the storm, since watersheds received a heavy fall of water-storing snow.

The crop outlook apparently was not as dismal as early reports indicated. Officials of the Great Western Sugar company said about 75 per cent of the beet crop has been harvested in northern Colorado, and that in areas where the crop still is in the ground beets were safe unless a prolonged cold snap set in.

Some Cattle Shrinkage
Cattle on the open range, where the storm swept in on light winds Saturday, probably will suffer some shrinkage, stockmen said.

F. E. Molin, executive secretary of the American National Livestock Association, said large numbers of stock still remain on the ranges.

The weather bureau forecast a high of between 45-55 degrees tomorrow with snow in the mountains and the extreme south.

Most city and rural schools were closed yesterday and some did not immediately schedule a reopening date.

Public relations officers said they hoped to clear drifts from Lowry Field to permit a resumption of activities early today.

New Mexico apparently was in for a whip of the storm today, although weathermen said it was gradually lessening in intensity.

Eastbound trains of the Missouri Pacific were held up at Ordway, Colo., last night, as the storm descended on the little Colorado town, and at Trinidad, in a coal mining area, drifts as high as eight feet virtually isolated the town.

Rain Damage in Beaumont

BEAUMONT, Tex., Nov. 5.—(P)—An estimate of $4,000,000 damage to 5,000 Beaumont homes and business houses from flood waters fed by cloudbursts totaling more than 12 inches was made today by Mayor Fred C. Stone.

Some sections of the city were covered by three feet of water before the rain ceased yesterday.

Damage to unharvested rice crops in the Beaumont area was estimated at $500,000 by A. H. Boyd, president of the American Rice Growers Association.

Attempt To Enter Store

An attempt to rob Looie's Clothing store, 103 West Main street, was made, but entrance was not gained to the building. Officer Lon Maness, in making his rounds about 6:20 o'clock this morning, found the screen door pulled open, a burglar alarm cut, and the rear door "jimmied."

Withhold Back To Work Order To TWA Pilots

Attorneys Renew Efforts to Draft An Agreement

By James J. Strbig

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—(P)—Trans World Airline withdrew a back-to-work order for 15,000 idle employees today while attorneys renewed efforts to draft an arbitration agreement which would end the 16-day old pilot's strike.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 5.—(P)—A spokesman for Trans World Airline pilots accused the airline president, Jack Frye, of "hedging" today on an arbitration agreement which would end the 16-day-old pilots' strike.

The 1,400 air pilots who walked out October 21 demanding higher pay for the men who fly four-engine planes were on the verge of returning to their jobs when both sides accepted in principle yesterday the proposal of Federal Mediator Frank P. Douglass that the dispute be submitted to an arbitration panel.

David L. Behncke, president of the Pilot's Union, announced in Chicago that the government's arbitration offer had been accepted and pilots were ready to fly while the case was being handled.

However, company and union lawyers conferred with Douglass from 11 a. m. to 9 p. m., without writing a mutually acceptable agreement.

Stumbling Block
The stumbling block was whether the arbitration pact should cover TWA's proposal that pilots on its international runs be paid a flat salary. This pay system is followed by two competing United States airlines, Pan American and American Overseas.

The union objects to laying such a proposal before an arbitration panel, preferring that the board's decision be limited to a formula based on "decision 83"—the plan presently in use on domestic carriers.

This decision, written by the National Labor Relations Board after a near nation-wide strike of pilots in 1933, calculates pilot earnings on base pay, mileage and hourly pay and differentials for night flying. In addition, under recommendations made by a presidential emergency board in July, pilots receive an annual differential of $750 for flying international routes.

The issue of formula against flat pay had not previously been mentioned in public statements by opposing sides.

War Dads To Meet

The War Dads, Pettis Chapter No. 31, will have a board meeting Wednesday evening at 8:00 o'clock at the court house.

The regular monthly meeting of the organization will be held at 8:00 o'clock Friday evening at the K. of P. hall on East Fifth street.

Brief Stop by Special Train

President of the United States Harry S. Truman's special train passed through Sedalia at 10:50 o'clock this morning enroute from Independence, Mo., to Washington, D. C. The presidential special left Independence early this morning after Mr. Truman, Mrs. Truman and their daughter, Miss Margaret Truman, had cast their vote in the election.

The train stopped in Sedalia for about five minutes and there was a small crowd at the station. They had hoped the president might make an appearance. Members of the Sedalia Police Department, State Highway Patrol, and railroad officers were on hand to guard the train during its stop.

Several newspaper men left the train to give press releases to a Western Union messenger standing on the platform. Several of the White House officials also took a "stretch" on the platform and talked with Sedalians they had met.

Candidates running for these offices total 1,065, as follows: Senate 97, house 880, governor 88. Maine elected a governor, senator and three house members—all Republicans—last Sept. 9. These must be added to today's results to determine which party controls congress and gets the edge in state administrations.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—(P)—About 300 feminine candidates for congress and state offices counted on their sisters today to prove women stick together.

Theoretically, if they did stick together, a majority of the women political hopefuls would sweep into office, for the qualified feminine vote in today's congressional election is 1,171,000 greater than the male.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. Nov. 5.—(P)—Congressman Marion T. Bennett, Sixth district Republican candidate for reelection, said today he feared heavy rains and muddy roads would keep "several thousand" farmer Republicans from the polls in his district.

Bennett's opponent, Lt. Col. Tom B. Hembree, won't be able to vote for himself. The army wouldn't give him leave from his Fort Bullis, San Antonio, station.

Red Attack on Hospitality

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Nov. 5.—(P)—White Russia, in a sharp attack on official American hospitality, asked the United Nations today to consider a European site for permanent or temporary headquarters and particularly mentioned the old League of Nations capital in Geneva.

White Russia's proposal was filed with Secretary-General Trygve Lie under a Nov. 4 date—after the midnight Saturday deadline for submission of new items to the agenda of the general assembly.

Lie turned it over to the assembly's steering committee, to take up a United States proposal to reopen the site question to include only New York City and the San Francisco bay areas along with the surveyed areas in the Westchester county suburbs of New York.

The White Russian resolution mentioned difficulties of housing and office accommodations in the New York area, shortage of transportation, troubles encountered in maintaining liaison and the proposed budgetary expenses of maintaining headquarters in New York.

The election expected to bring out more than 35,000,000 citizens in weather forecast as fair and cool generally, although rainy in the south and snowy in the Rockies. are 35 senate places, 432 house seats and 33 governorships.

The Daily Washington Merry-go-Round

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5 — Unlike FDR, Harry Truman has not made a private estimate of today's election results and tucked it away in a drawer of his desk to be opened after the voting is over.

However, President Truman did receive a confidential report on the election's outcome from Senator-elect John Sparkman of Alabama, who called at the White House with Alabama's governor,
"Big Jim" Folsom, and New Alabama congressman Bob Jones who is taking Sparkman's place in the house.

To them the president expressed confidence that the Democrats would win both houses of congress.

Despite newspaper polls indicating GOP control of the house and a tough battle for the senate, despite pessimistic statements by Democrats like Governor Arnall of Georgia, Truman predicted a double-barreled victory.

Sparkman, chairman of the Democratic national committee speakers' bureau, drew him out by declaring that reports from the field indicated the Republican trend had run its course and that Democratic candidates were steady-ly picking up ground in most districts.

"Personally, I don't think we are going to lose either house," Mr.
President," asserted Sparkman.

"Neither do I," said Truman.

Admitting that the senate was the safest for the Democrats, he observed:

"However, I think we'll hold our own in the house."

Truman said that a number of Democratic seats conceded to Republicans a few weeks ago — and he named six seats specifically — are not being conceded now.

Senator Sparkman then went over the country, state by state, and predicted that the Democrats would retain 231 house seats, a majority of 131.

"We will lose between 10 and 12 seats all told in the house and not more than 3 in the senate," Sparkman forecast. The present makeup of the senate is:
Democrats 56, Republicans 39, and Progressive 1.

The Democratic Lineup
"Our candidates are in safely
in Washington, Nevada, Utah, New Mexico, Wyoming, Rhode Island and Maryland," Sparkman continued, "and we have an excellent chance of taking away two seats from the Republicans in California and Kentucky."

Sparkman named eight "doubtful" states — Massachusetts, Delaware, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, Missouri and Idaho.

The Democrats, he said, have a fighting chance in all eight. In West Virginia, he added, Senator Harley Kilgore would win.

Truman flashed a big smile when Sparkman mentioned Missouri as among the "doubtful" states. A St. Louis Post-Dispatch editorial lauding Democratic Senator Briggs was on his desk.

"I think you can take Senator Briggs off the doubtful column," the president declared. "He's going to win."

Husky, 6-foot-4 Governor Fol-son reported that the Democrats had raised twice as much money in Alabama as ever before in an off-year election.

"Despite the fussing we do among ourselves," he said, "the party as a whole is solidly behind you, Mr. President, and will continue to support you."

"One reason the Republicans are losing ground in this campaign despite the ballyhoo to the contrary, is because they won't take a stand on anything," Fol-son contended. "They're fighting a negative fight, attacking what we do. Why, the Republicans wouldn't even take a stand on foreign policy, so we had to debate that out among ourselves."

"Big Jim" didn't have to mention Henry Wallace by name when he said this. The president beat him to it with a broad smile.

How Cotton Tumbled
Peoples' memories are short.

During the past two weeks the crash in the cotton market lost the south millions of dollars and gave the cotton belt a serious jolt.

Few people remember, however, that this was exactly what Chester Bowles, then economic stabilizer, warned against last month.
At that time he sought to increase the margin on cotton trading in order to prevent runaway cotton prices.

Bowles remembered the economic catastrophe which hit the south after the last war when cotton climbed to its highest peak, then dropped to its lowest.

But Bowles' attempt to keep cotton on an even keel ran into serious trouble. Senator Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma, Democrat, didn't like it. He ranted and raved. A glance at the Congressional Record for last spring is revealing. Senator Thomas fumed and fulminated for page after page.

"Now Mr. Bowles comes along and says that these margin requirements are not sufficiently high," declared the Democratic senator from Oklahoma, "and so to keep the price of cotton from mounting he has issued an order that anyone who desires to sell or buy cotton must put up $50 a bale."

"If this order becomes effective, and if it does what Mr. Bowles thinks it will do — namely, drive the price of cotton down 1 cent — that will amount to $5 on a bale of cotton."

Thomas ranted on for thousands of words. But what he did not tell his colleagues was that he did not believe purchasing cotton on the exchange through members of his family. Naturally, therefore, he wanted cotton to go up. Anyway, he got his wish — at least for a while.

Shortly thereafter, Mr. Bowles was eased out of the government, the office of economic stabilization was virtually abolished, and the price-control act was thrown on the scrap heap.

Meanwhile the price of cotton skyrocketed. Senator Thomas of Oklahoma had his way all right.
Cotton soared up and up and then, having reached the almost record price of 39 cents a pound, cotton started down to a level near where Bowles wanted to keep it.

A lot of people got seriously hurt in this crash. And judging from the loud screams of anger from Senator Thomas he was one of them. If so, it was not the speculators whom he accused, but he, himself, who was largely to blame.

Forces of Attraction Hold the Moon "Up" in the Sky....and OIL-PLATE Your Engine!

THE moon isn't really "up" in the sky,
but it is held from flying off into space by gravitational attraction between it and the earth.

Through tireless explorations in realms of molecular attraction, Conoco chemists have been able to bring America the benefits of new and better oils. In fact, by employing the force of molecular attraction they are able to bond a special ingredient in Conoco Nth motor oil to working surfaces of your engine. So strong is this attraction that cylinder walls and other parts are OIL-PLATED.

And because molecular attraction holds Conoco OIL-PLATING up where it belongs ... prevents it from all draining down to the crankcase, even overnight ... you get these benefits:

- added protection during the vital periods when you first start your engine
- added protection from corrosive action when your engine is not in use
- added protection from wear that leads to fouling sludge and carbon
- added smooth, silent miles

That's why you'd be safer to OIL-PLATE your engine now ... at Your Conoco

AT 69, GETS RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Calls This Famous Cereal "Wonderful Laxative Food"

Feeling down and out because of constipation? Read the words of cheer in this sincere, unsolicited letter:

"I am 69 years old and up to two years ago, I never knew what irregularity was. But I sure suffered agonies for nearly two years. Then I tried KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN. It is wonderful. How I wish every man who suffers the way I did, could hear of and try this wonderful laxative food!" John T. Brennan, 611 E. Camilla St., White, Calif.

Imagine! You, too, may never have to take another harsh laxative for constipation due to lack of bulk in your diet—if you eat an ounce of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN every day, and drink plenty of water. If after 10 days you are not completely satisfied, send the empty carton to the Kellogg Company, Battle Creek, Michigan. You will get double your money back! ALL-BRAN is not a purgative. It's a natural laxative food providing gentle bulk helpful to normal laxation. Eat All-Bran every day as a delicious cereal—or in muffins.

Ask your grocer for ALL-BRAN. Made by Kellogg's of Battle Creek and Omaha.

Dr. Charles F. Hunter, director of radio at the University of Kansas City, gave an interesting talk before Sorosis club Monday afternoon on "Radio in America."

Miss Helen Bowers, program chairman, presented William Seelen who introduced the speaker. Mr. Seelen is a personal friend of Dr. Hunter.

The speaker stated that in Washington there is a Federal Communications committee composed of seven people appointed by the president to serve a term of seven years. At the present time there are 1,000 radio stations and it is expected that that number will be increased to 2,000.

Radio has a great educational value, the speaker said, and the public is the outstanding influence in the type of programs presented. He continued:

"Radio is a wonderful thing, not because it created Frank Sinatra, Bob Hope, or the soap industry. It is wonderful for a purely impersonal, scientific reason. It is an invention which allows one man in a single moment of time to be heard by millions of human beings. When the president of the United States speaks, he has an audience that often numbers more than sixty million people. Radio could make it possible for the president of the world to sit at a microphone and address an audience of every person in the world who could hear."

Radio is Neutral. Radio, itself, is a neutral thing. It is merely a device for transporting noise from one place to many others. But its power lies in the fact that the noise it transmits can be heard anywhere in the world, by as many people as wish to listen.

A medium with such potentialities should be in good hands. The broadcaster to come must be men and women who are skilled in the use of their medium, and who have a deep sense of the power they hold and of the obligation to use it well.

An announcer, to be a good newsmen, should have certain qualifications. First, he should be interested in news and its developments. Second, he must have a considerable amount of background information. Third, he must be a man with a high degree of communicability. In other words, he must be able to say things and read copy in such a way that the audience immediately understands what he is talking about. The broadcasting of news demands that the announcer be clear, have a calm delivery, be able to pronounce foreign names, and have enough general information to know the meaning of what he is reading.

To the layman it might seem that if the script is furnished, anyone could read it. As a matter of fact, an audience is very sensitive to unintelligent reading. No matter how smooth or how glib the reading may be, if it is not accompanied by a definite understanding of what is being read, this fact will show through clearly.

How To Be Intelligent. "Americans wish to be intelligent radio listeners, and there are four definite hints for achieving this end. First, people should study and know program schedules. Second, they should indicate their likes and dislikes because the radio industry is very responsive to public opinion. Third, people should submit ideas for programs to stations, for the radio industry is always open to new ideas. And fourth, people can put their programs on the air."

The program next week will be in charge of Mrs. P. C. Owen. A luncheon will precede the meeting at 12:30 o'clock.

Mrs. D. S. Lamm, president, presided over the meeting.

The monthly recital of the Mozart club met Sunday afternoon at Mrs. Jewell Harter Thomas' residence.

Joann Hyatt was winner in two contests held, one a musical story with nursery rhymes and the other musical questions.

Roll call was answered with the names of American composers and the high lights of each one.

The program was as follows: Tropic Clouds—Jo Ann Wissman.

The Mill—Ann Reedy. On the Mountain Top—Charlotte Bahner.

Spinning Song—Betty Sue Wills. Blue Danube in Reverse—Carolyn Kennon.

Piano Concerto and The Dreamer—Analu Allicorn. Sylvia—Dickie Amos.

Today's election in Sedalia has been as quiet as any in the city's history. Up to 1 o'clock in the afternoon less than half the average vote in each ward had been polled.

The oldest man to vote in Missouri today was undoubtedly Frederick Saugrain of this city, who was 100 years old on his last birthday.

M. J. McGraw, general master mechanic for the Missouri Pacific, with headquarters in St. Louis, came in this morning for a company visit and registered at the Antlers hotel.

At the meeting of the city council Monday night Alderman C. M. Winner spoke at length regarding a more extensive sewerage system for Sedalia. The city attorney was instructed to prepare a ordinance for presentation for establishing of a sewer district and bring it up at the next meeting.

About 15 billion dollars worth of U. S. property has gone up in smoke since 1900.

Notre Dame is All 'Het Up' For Army

Coach Leahy Picks Army to Win by a Margin of 27-14

By Sid Feder
SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 5—(AP)—There have been Notre Dame teams in the past that have been hot.
But not in the memory of the oldest living inhabitant has there been a set of Irish shillelagh pitchers like the current Notre Dame footballers. Never was one as "het up" and looking for a fight like the 1946 fraternity as they prepare for their national championship game Saturday with the Army, which has hung it on them 59-0 and 44-0 for the last two years. Just, for instance, is what's going on around here.
The first team goes through a dummy scrimmage—no contact and nothing to get excited about except some plays Coach Frank Leahy hasn't allowed them to use all year because they're saving them for Army. Well, between each formation lineup, the Irish front-wall wallpapers go into a huddle to make with a cheer to "Give us Army" until a fearful innocent bystander pleads with local authorities to "throw those lions some meat and let's get out of here."

Jimmy Costin, local sports editor and semi-pro historian of Notre Dame doings, is somewhat amazed at how high this particular Irish set has worked itself. Coach Frank Leahy scratched his head and said, "I wish I could phone Red Blaik up at Army and ask him to bring his team out here today so we could play them."
What Leahy was trying to say was that his Notre Dame let's-get-even "lads" were so hot right at this moment, he's afraid they'll turn out some of their emotional fire before game time Saturday, and he'd just as soon they burn it out where it will do the most good. And Leahy, having picked Army to win by a 27-14 edge—without saying positively—can't think of a better place for the Notre Dame heat to hit than the Cadet combustion company.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.
NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Around the Big Nine a lot of people are pulling for Ohio State to win the championship and go to the Rose Bowl. The idea is that it would be a grand send-off for L. W. St. John, retiring Buckeye athlete director who long has championed the bowl game.
Ohio was turned down in a formal bid to go to the Rose Bowl in 1944. Right now the Bucks look like a good bet, off Saturday's Northwestern game, to come out on top of that tough little race. One observer reports that Coach Paul Bixler pulled a Greasy Neale on Northwestern, using a formation play until Ohio State got inside the five yard line and then switching to the single wing for greater power to push the ball across the goal.

Revealing Secrets
Dick Colman, Princeton assistant coach and scout, gives this as the lowdown on how Princeton beat Penn last week: "We put a 167-pound guard right opposite big George Savitsky—figuring he'd laugh so hard it would cut down his efficiency." And Boston College's Dennis Myers plugs Quarterback Don Panciera thus: "If three quarters of the coaches in this room left their automobiles with the motors running, the cars likely would go right to Panciera's front door. I know mine would."

Sports Before Your Eyes
Another tip from the Midwest is that two of the Illinois basketball "Whiz Kids" who are drawing so many raves in pre-season sports won't even make the first team. . . . There will be 1200 empty seats at Yankee Stadium for the Army-Notre game Saturday, but they'll be behind the temporary stands so that nobody who sat in them could see the game. Chances are they could sell them anyway. Ray Flaherty, the football Yankee coach, maintains the Miami Seahawks have improved more in a week than he thought possible—which is good news for owner Harvey Hester, whose club will be at home in the Orange Bowl for six consecutive nights.

Good Steer
Turk Edwards, who twice refused the job of coaching the Washington Redskins on the grounds that he wasn't ready for it, is the National Football League's newest coach but he's an old hand at the steering wheel. On the Redskins' first trip in 1933, the bus driver got tired and Turk piloted the 48 chariot full of players into Buffalo.

Referee: Ed "Strangler" Lewis, former heavyweight champion of the world.

Women wrestlers are scheduled for tonight's wrestling matches, with one match headlining the card and the other opening the evening of entertainment under the sponsorship of the Pettis County Post No. 16, American Legion. The first match gets underway at 8:30 o'clock.
Ed "Strangler" Lewis, a former heavyweight champion of the world has been secured to handle the matches in Sedalia tonight. Lewis, who at one time was "headline" material for the sports writers, is now making a tour refereeing wrestling matches.
Opening tonight's events will be a match between Evelyn Wall, Milwaukee and Mattie Bell of Columbus, O., both of whom have appeared in Sedalia before. Both girls have a reputation of being tough, and their thirty minute match should prove to be rather interesting.

In the semi-windup Frank Hewitt of Toronto, Canada, who last week was disqualified for his roughness, will meet Calvin Rees, St. Joseph, Mo., who is known to have the ability to take care of himself with the rough lads.
The finals brings together Neil Stewart of Los Angeles, California, who has appeared before local fans before. WINGS OF TOMORROW: The Story of Aviation

BY CHARLES TRACY
Aviation editor, Cleveland Press; former Army pilot
(Written for NEA Service)

(1) Aviation today is on the threshold of a new era—the supersonic age. Ambitious man, having simplified in 43 years the problems of flying and attained speeds greater than 500 miles an hour, struggles to break through the barriers preventing him from traveling faster than sound—763 miles an hour. New designs are necessary to make possible these supersonic flights. Tremendous new power is becoming available in rocket and jet propulsion engines, rapidly developed under the pressure of war.

(2) Propeller-driven planes will have little use in the new era. The cylinder-and-piston engine which has pushed man's wings aloft from his first flight to the present has reached the peak of its usefulness. Commercial and military craft will be jet-propelled in the immediate future. At 600 m. p. h. air travelers will become accustomed to smooth, high-altitude flights. Rockets will follow the jets. In experiments this year the Army sent rockets modeled after the German V-2 into the ionosphere 83½ miles at a speed of 3500 m. p. h. Information gained from the delicate instruments these pilotless, radio-controlled craft carried will aid man to plan his own altitude-record-shattering flights.

(3) Air terminals with hotels and shopping centers—miniature cities in themselves—are being planned for tomorrow's air travelers. New York's Idlewild and the terminal proposed for Burbank, Cal., are forerunners of tomorrow's stepping-off points to major cities of the globe. Helicopters will find an important use as air limousines connecting the heart of each city with its airports. The Westair Helicopter Terminal planned for New York may be duplicated in many large cities. Helicopters are already carrying mail to airports from downtown post-offices.

(4) While aeronautical engineers await the perfection of jet and rocket propulsion to power tomorrow's sky giants and meteor-swift fighters, they are producing the ultimate in aircraft powered by reciprocating engines. Howard Hughes' immense eight-engined flying boat—made of wood, will be capable of carrying 700 persons. It is the largest plane ever built. The Northrop flying wing, XB-35, first of a fleet of 15 giant tailless Army bombers, is 25 per cent more efficient than are such conventional types as the Boeing B-29. Its designers plan similar transports, 100 m. p. h. faster than current types.

GAYLE and Bart did not refer to New Year's Eve again, and to all outward appearances their married life was as it always had been.

Bart was away from home a great deal. He had bought a new plane the preceding summer, and he went off with friends on several trips as an excuse to fly. He was away for several days when the fishing season opened, and it seemed to Gayle that he must spend half his evenings at Madison Square Garden; at least, he was always staying in town to attend fights or hockey games or basketball games—and usually when he stayed for a game, he slept at his club.

Two weeks after Rose had left to spend the summer in her native Wyoming, the maid called Gayle to the telephone. "It's Mrs. Evans," she explained.

Mrs. Evans? Gayle frowned in thought. She knew no Mrs. Evans. "Hello," she said into the telephone.

"Hello, Mrs. Bartlett. This is Christina Evans. I met you last year at Rose Beecher's studio."

"Oh, of course," Gayle replied. "Rose spoke of you almost the last time I saw her."

"I'm awfully relieved to have you remember me. There's something I want to talk to you about, and I can't do it on the phone. Could I come out to Bronxville this afternoon? I mean, will you be entirely free?"

"Yes, but if you're busy, I can come into Manhattan."

"No. People are always popping into my apartment, and this is very private. What time shall I come?"

They agreed on a train, and Gayle told her to look for Tom, who would be waiting for her at the station.

Now what, she wondered, after she had left the telephone, could Rose's friend want with her?

GAYLE'S curiosity turned to confusion when Mrs. Evans arrived. Her outward appearance was placid, but Gayle was much too sensitive to atmospheres not to be instantly aware of her caller's deep embarrassment.

There was a little uneasy preliminary talk about Rose, and then Mrs. Evans said, "I might as well get down to it, Mrs. Bartlett. I've come on a terrible errand, and I'm frightened. I'm so afraid I'm doing the wrong thing."

Gayle's eyes opened in fear, but before she could speak Mrs. Evans continued.

"I've hesitated two weeks," she went on. "I made up my mind not to say anything. Then Rose talked about you and your husband..."

"Yes?" From that instant nothing Mrs. Evans said surprised Gayle. With complete certainty she knew what she had come for. "She said she had opposed your marriage. She'd been sure it would be a failure, but it hadn't been and she was awfully glad. I didn't say anything, but..."

"But you knew she was wrong?" Gayle's voice was quiet, but her heart was throbbing in her side.

"Yes, I knew she was wrong."

"This isn't altogether a surprise. Mrs. Evans. Won't you tell me what you know?"

"I'll try to tell you," Mrs. Evans replied, "but it's hard. Somewhere around the first of the year Holly Steele moved into the apartment across from me. She's a model and just about the prettiest child I'd ever seen in my life. She's as blonde as I am, but lovely—just lovely; tall and slender and with the bluest eyes you can imagine. I've found out since she moved there because she knew the Kingstons, who live on our floor."

"HOLLY and I became elevator acquaintances. Then one night she came over and asked me to make a fourth at bridge with her and a Mr. Bartlett and Betty Kingston. Tom Kingston had gone somewhere for the evening. I thought Mr. Bartlett was just a suitor, but the next day Betty came in and explained. It was a dreadful situation, she said. Holly was terribly in love with Bruce—that's what they all called your husband—and he was terribly in love with her, but he was married. He'd never fooled Holly; he'd told her from the first he had a wife and child, but he said he and his wife were practically separated."

"I suppose," said Gayle through tight lips, "the cruel wife wouldn't give him a divorce."

"No. Betty said he and his wife had agreed to stay together for the child's sake but they left each other entirely free. He came to Holly's apartment once or twice a week." Mrs. Evans paused thoughtfully. "She worships him, Mrs. Bartlett, really worships him. She doesn't care a thing about his money. It's only fair to Holly to tell you that. That's about all, I guess. Holly always spoke of Mr. Bartlett as Bruce, and Rose spoke of him as Bart—and I never once thought of the two as one and the same. Then I saw your picture in the rotogravure—the Easter Parade, you know, 'Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Van Dyke Bartlett.' It was really a shock."

Gayle looked long at Mrs. Evans and finally managed to speak calmly. "You've been very kind. I know how hard all of this has been for you. I think you know my husband lied. We aren't living together for the sake of our baby. He lied to that poor girl—and he lied to me. You will give evidence if I need you?"

"Yes, I thought of that, and it seemed to me I didn't have any right to tell you anything unless I was willing to give evidence, too," she sighed. "I'm so sorry, Mrs. Bartlett."

Gayle lifted her hands a little and then let them fall limp into her lap. "Sorry? Oh, you can't know; you can't know..."

Tribute Paid To Will Rogers

Birthday Of Late Cowboy Humorist Is Observed

CLAREMORE, Okla., Nov. 5.—(P)—The weather wasn't what they wanted for the long-planned affair, but the Indians, cowboys and other folks of Claremore didn't let dripping skies interfere with Monday's observance of the 67th birthday of the late Will Rogers, his hometown's favorite son.

Several thousand old friends and admirers rode and marched and other thousands watched a colorful parade to the rambling, ranch-type Will Rogers Memorial on the hilltop outside town where Rogers had planned to spend retirement.

There, beside the crypt where he was buried after the Alaskan plane crash that ended his life 11 years ago, the people who knew him best and gloried in the world acclaim of his sparkling wit and droll philosophy paid homage to the man who made their town famous.

In the crowd was the humorist's younger son, Jimmy Rogers, and his family.

Wreaths On Crypt.

Indians in native garb, farmers in denim and muddy boots, and national and state figures watched while members of the Pocahontas club, Indian social organization to which Rogers belonged, laid two wreaths upon the crypt.

The invocation was said in rolling Cherokee and Indian school students chanted songs in tribal language.

Inside, the memorial's chime played "Home on the Range."

Afterward in a brief eulogy, movie actor Leo Carrillo, Rogers' friend and onetime California neighbor who led the parade astride a prancing Palomino, said of his old crony:

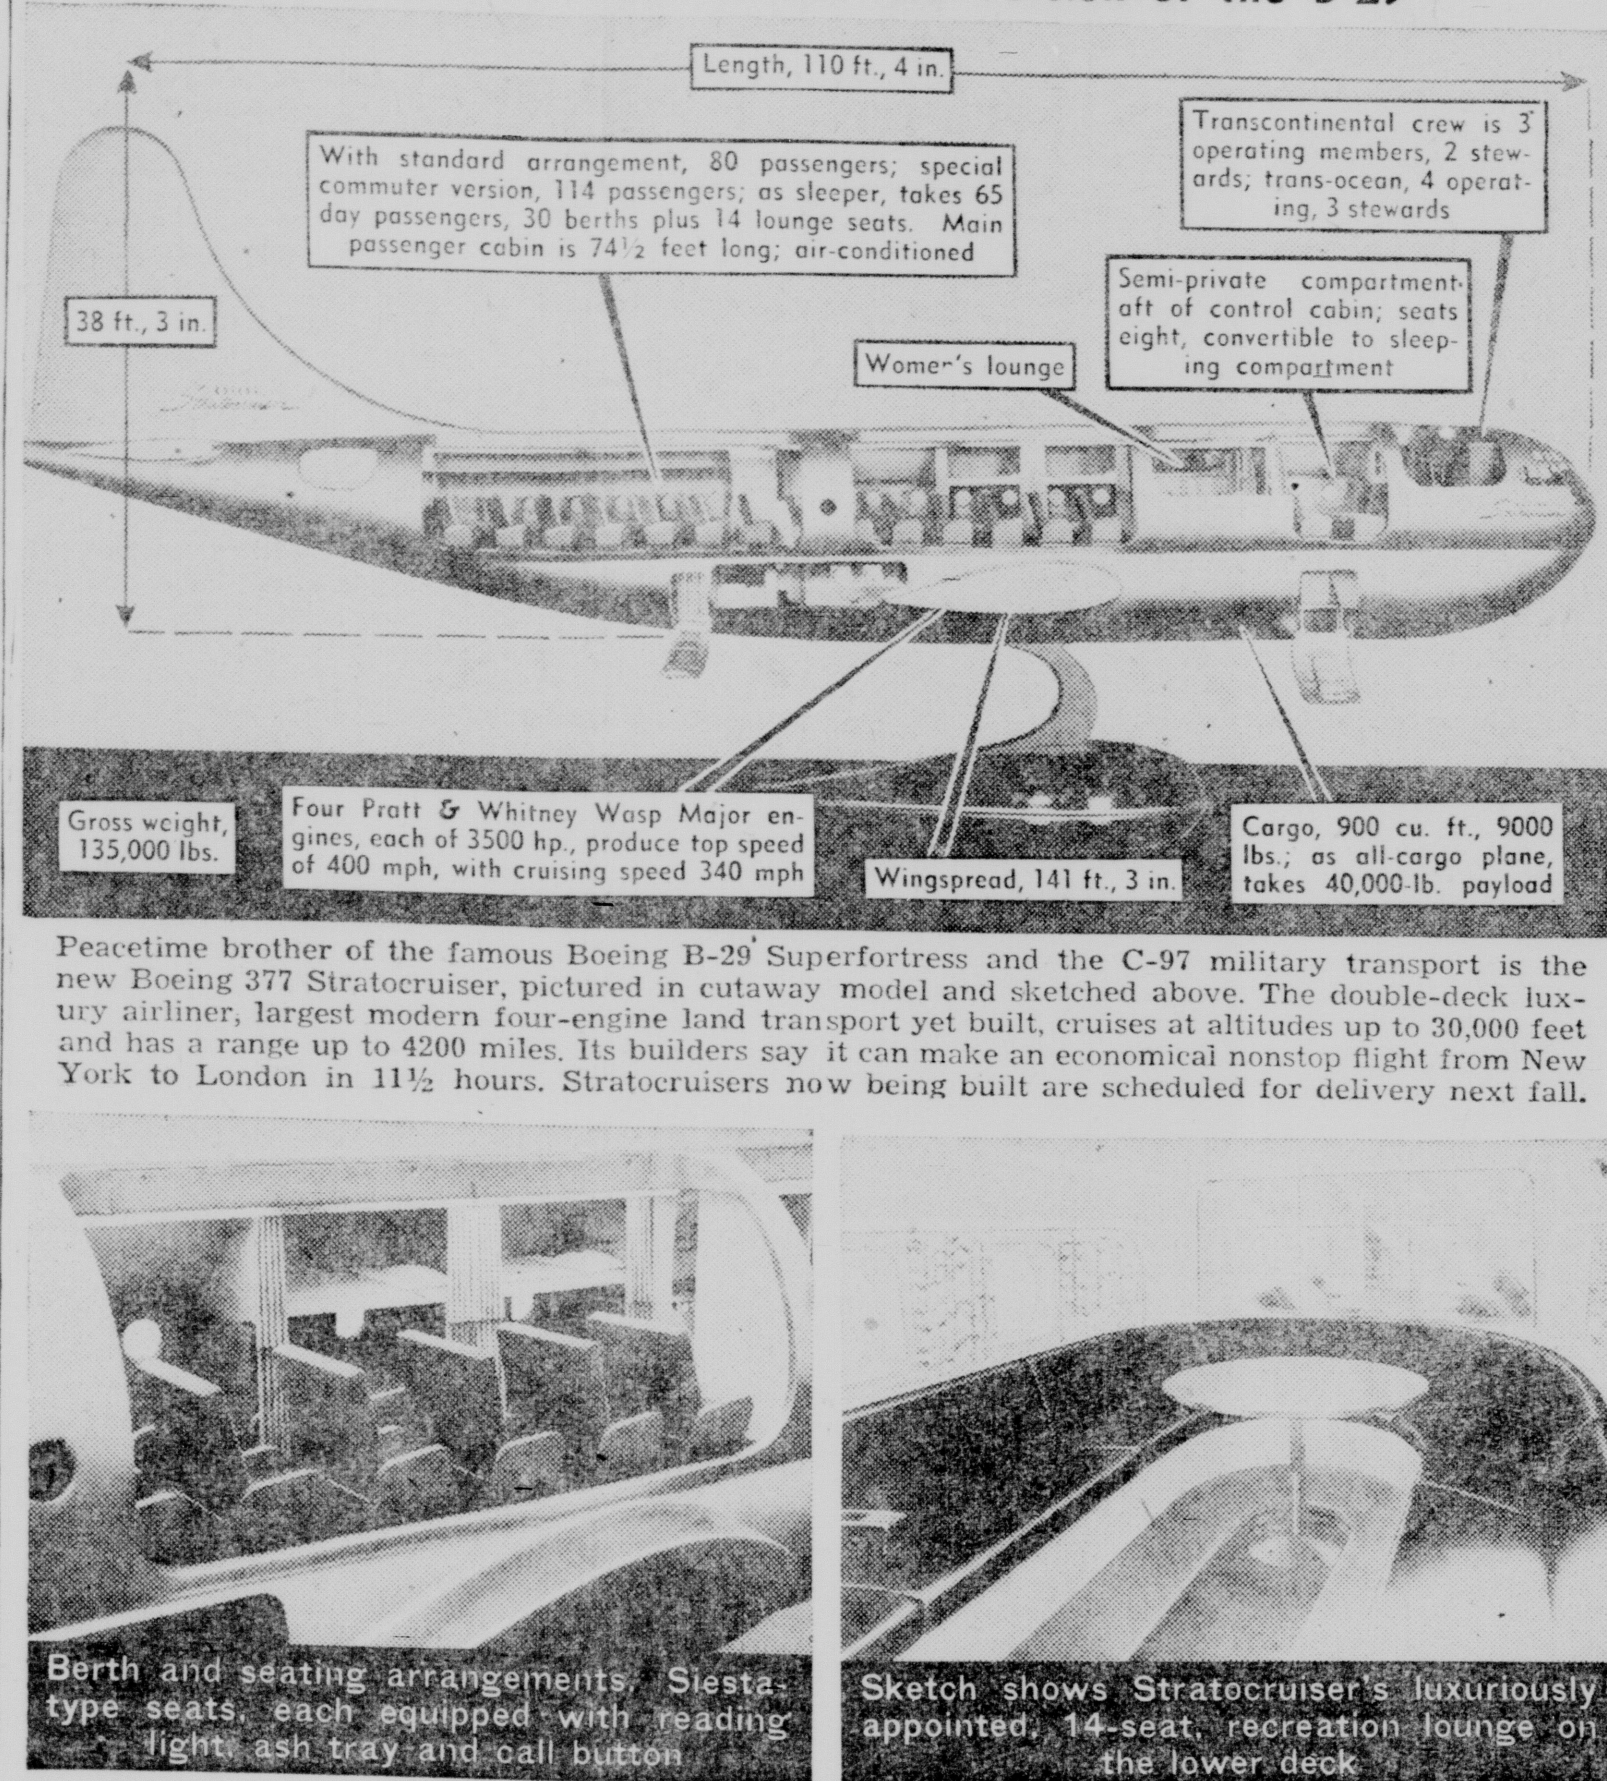

"He was not only a great American but a citizen of the world."

And Gov. Robert S. Kerr, accepting for the state of Oklahoma a plaque from the Cherokee Indian nation, of which Rogers was a citizen, termed him one "who brought more honor to Oklahoma than we could hope to bestow upon him."

Inscribed on the plaque, in both English and Cherokee, was the Rogers saying: "Live your life so that whenever you lose you are ahead."

The observance began with a horse and colt show preceding the parade and ended with a barbecue and roundup clubs' games and stunts.
